D&D Roof Insulations has delivered again. The renowned thermal insulation specialist and supplier of a wide range of roof insulation materials for all industrial, commercial, retail and residential building structures brings to market Starfibre™, the newest addition to the D&D product range.

Since its establishment in 1999, Pretoria-based D&D Roof Insulations has grown to become a trusted industry leader. Committed to stay current with market trends, changes and resulting divergent challenges, D&D Roof Insulations is well positioned to realize opportunities and deliver products that meet their clients' specific needs as well as benefiting the final user. The company's newest product offering, Starfibre™, is no exception.

STARFIBRE™ INSULATION

Available in convenient, flexible rolls, Starfibre™ polyester ceiling insulation is made from recycled plastic bottles to provide a high-quality polyester fibre option that is light yet strong and resilient, safe, and very thermally efficient.

- Ideal for thermal and acoustic applications (supplied as a plain blanket)
- Suitable for use in roofs, ceilings and walls
- Effective in commercial, industrial and residential buildings

- Fire rating of B/B2/2 achieved (tested according to SANS428 as part of SANS10400)
- Very cost-effective

EASY, SAFE INSTALLATION

No protective clothing is needed when installing Starfibre™ insulation and the process is very easy. For example, in roof installations: Simply measure the distance between the roof trusses, accurately cut* the material for a custom fit, roll the blanket out between the trusses so that it lies flat on the ceiling (no gaps or compression), and cut required holes around the downlighters to allow for heat dissipation.

Starfibre™ is available in various thicknesses, at a width of 1,200mm. When laid directly over the ceiling, between trusses, you are assured of a snug fit.

Note: Any cutting must be done in strict accordance with the manufacturer's specifications.*
